A WILD FREIGHT TRAIN

AND TWO MEN BADLY INJURED.

An Engine and Forty Cars Become Unman. ageable and Rush Across the Big Trestle South of the City.

Bernard Walton, of 300 south Pine, and Charles N. Sweetman, of 18 north Ninth street, had a narrow escape from death last night just about 9:30 o'clock. They are railroad employes of the Chesapeake and Ohio Company, and each evening run a train of cars across the big trestle south of the city to the draw-bridge at the foot of Twenty-eighth street. Walton is an engineer and Sweetman the fireman, and last evening they coupled their engine to the train of forty cars at the foot of Second

These cars contained what is known as through freight and are brought from the West over the James-river division of the road. Grain, coal, lumber and miscellaneous mercantile goods usually make up the car-goes in the cars going through to Newport News, and are there unloaded. Coming from the West these cars are side-tracked at the company's shops at Second street, and as soon as a clear track can be given them are brought down the Richmond and Alleghany track to Ninth street. At that point they begin their descent on the high lengthy trestle that occupies and when they reach the foot of Twenty-eighth street they have progressed as far as what is known as "the transfer." There they again begin their journey, crossing the Richmond and Danville drawbridge, and continue on their way over the Danville tracks until Orleans street in Fulton is reached. They are again switched to the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the journey to Newport News is taken up.

TWO ENGINES REQUIRED.

To move this freight from Second to Or-leans street requires the services of two heavy engines, and all night long engines are constantly carrying freight down the trestle or with pulling engines carrying it up the very steep grade.

Walton and Sweetman, with a conductor, E. Whitlock, started on their journey last evening about 9 o'clock. Leaving the Second-street yards, they proceeded safely natil in the middle of the trestle. Then for some reason the train became unmanage, able, and the engine, though a powerful affair, was unable to control the forty loaded cars behind it. Every second told, as the train, with engine in front, accelerated its speed, and trainmen at the transfer noted the fast gait No. 297 was making coming down the grade. Faster the engine flew, propelled by the ever-increasing momentum of the cars behind, and it was hardly a moment before the collision came. some reason the train became unmanage-

HE SUMPED.

Just a second previously Walton jumped from the locomotive and landed amidst a number of boulders which lay to the right of the track. Sweetman jumped from the left side, and landed on the track and cindered vard of the trans-fer. The engine collided with its sister locomotive which was standing in the transfer yard. There was a tremor, says an eye-witness, and the engine fell over on its right side, carrying tender and one or two box cars with it. It is miraculous that Walton was not killed outtht by some pieces of falling steel or bood, but fortunately he was not struck. and his most serious injuries were the result of falling on the sharp rocks.

The engineer was hunted for with lanterns and it was several moments before he was able to answer the searchers. Tenderly his fellow-workmen carried him over the draw-bridge and made him as comfortable as possible on a grass plot near the sidewalk of Dock street.

Sweetman was also carried there and at the nearest telephone calls were made for the ambulance and Dr. Hugh M. Taylor. The Doctor and myself arrived a few moments after the accident occurred, and in a few moments the ambulance arrived. Dr.

Taylor made an examination and found Walton in a serious condition. He had evidently sustained internal injuries.

otherwise he was well. He said his leg was not broken, however.

IN THE AMBULANCE.

Walton was in a few moments laid on the stretcher and placed in the ambulance. Both were taken to their homes.

The engine seemed to be a total wreck, although but little could be told last evening, the only light being the fitral glare of the trainman's lantern. The force must have been terrific, as the tender of the engage was into was broken to pieces, and the gine run into was broken to pieces, and the tank demolished. The engine was not injured. No. 217, however, lay on her side hissing out steam, and if the cars had not been coupled behind her, there is but little doubt but that she would have rolled in the

The switch used to put a train on the Danville tracks was closed and it's an open question whether the result would have been more advantageous had it been open. The train would, in the latter event, have sped over the draw-bridge and with the speed it had attained would have evidently torn the structure to pieces.

Mr. H. M. Alexander, the telegraph operator at the transfer, escaped by only a few seconds. He with a conductor saw the train coming and, rushing out, ran over the drawbridge. A few moments later the crash came, and the loaded freight cars were tarown on the frame building occupied by

The loss is said to be about $20,000, which, of course, does not include the delay the acci-dent will occasion. Blame cannot be attached to any one as far as could be learned last evening. It was just one of those un-fortunate accidents that sometimes occur

What the Tri-City League is Doing-The

At Island Park this afternoon a hotly contested game of base-ball will delight the many cranks who are wont to occupy the bleacheries every Saturday afternoon. The Virginias and the College men will be the contestants and there is every reason for a spirited game. The Virginias, having won every contest they have played in the series. are anxious not to lose their lead, while the College men are exerting every effort to defeat the Giants. One can expect to see a preitily played game of ball, as both teams are in constant practice, are athletic young men and desirous of doing all possible to win. Applegate and Foster will be the battery for the Gaints. and Liston and Keefer will occupy the boxes for the Spiders. Applegate is an excellent pitcher, and throughout this week has been in constant training. Foster is an honest, reliable player, a splendid batsman and base-runner and will do much to help win the game.
Lyston and keefer are now living in Roanke, and come down to Richmond each and come down to Richmond each time the College men play. They are ex-cellent players, and were instrumental in tying the game last Saturday.

Shelton each time he plays with the Virginias makes a brilliant record, but has the unlucky faculty of making a couple of errors in every game. With the Elbas this rors in every game. With the Elbas this week he stopped a waist-high ball that every one thought was good for a hit, and the baseman was retired at first. It was only a few seconds later when the sprightly second baseman made one of the most tremendous fumbles ever seen on a ball field. Shelton has every promise, however, of becoming one of the best second basemen in the country. Enright will be on the field this afternoon and if his services are needed will go in for a few in-

The Forest Hill team and the Petersburg club played a game in the Cockade City yesterday, resulting in a tie score of four to four. Hattorf and Luck formed the battery for the Free State citizens and Quaries and Widgins passed the ball to and fro for the Petersburgers. Five hits were made from Quaries' delivery and the Cockade City people pounded Hattorf for four. The Petersburgers were strengthened by Foster on third base. The special features of the game were the batting by Kain and the running catch made by W. Bradley. Kain also did good field work, having and accepting ten chances.

There were 850 people present.

The Tri-City games thus far have resulted as follows, the score made by each suited as follows, the score made by each club following the name of the organization: July 2th, Virginias, 21; College, 3, July 18th, Virginias, 10; Forest Hills, 7, July 23d, Forest Hills, 3; College, 7, July 30th, Virginias 3; College, 2, August 8th, Virginias, 6; Forest Hills, 3, August 13th, Forest Hills, 6; College, 6. The Virginias have won two games from the College team and two from the Forest Hill people. The Forest Hill team has won one game from Forest Hill team has won one game from the College men, and the last game between them resulted in a tie.

KINGBIRDS AND CAMERONS. The game at Island Park yesterday afterfrom Cameron & Cameron resulted in a triumph for the latter club by a score of 10 to 5. Mesdes until the sixth inning pitched for the Cameron people, and there were but few hits made from his delivery. He was ably supported by Trimmer. In the sixth Duke, who had been playing short stop, went into the box. Johnson sent the sphere over the plate for the Kingbirds and was confusing with the many curves begave the ball. He was splendidly caught by Hart until the middle of the fourth inning. Hart while catching with the mask struck on the neck, just below the chin, by a tip foul. He immediately lay down and for a time matters looked serious. The ambulance was called and proper treatment administered and in half an hour he had considerably improved. Meades also received a severa blow in the abdomen while at the

THIRD PARTY LEADERS

IN THE ALLIANCE CONVENTION

Seem to Have Had Things Their Own Way_Democratic Members Think They Were Not Treated Fairly.

The late Farmers' Alliance Convention did not adjourn until midnight on Thursday and its action naturally formed the general topic of conversation among the politicians in this city yesterday.

It is the general opinion that the convention did not fairly represent the Farmers' Alliances of this State. It is claimed that some of the leaders of the Third party movement laid their wires in such an adroit manner as to secure the election of delegates to the convention who are in sympathy with them. In some instances it is said that the delegates were only elected by a comparatively few members in the absence of those who are friendly to the cause of the Demo-

AS FAR AS POSSIBLE.

"The very fact that the convention did not dare to pass a resolution openly indorsing the Third party movement," said a prominent Democrat yesterday, "goes to show that they did not believe themselves to be strong enough, and that they feared by such an extreme measure to drive away number of the contributing members. They went as far as they could go under the cir-cumstances when they voted to continue cumstances when they voted to continue the Virginia Sun as an Alliance paper."

The action of Delegate Wescott, of Accomac, who endeavored to have a resolution passed compelling the Alliance lecturers to refrain from talking Third party politics while in the pay of the Alliance, meets with general approval. It is expected that the refusal of the convention to pass the resolution will cause the disbanding of a good many Alliances in Accomac as well as in many Alliances in Accomac as well as in other counties.

THE STATE LECTURER.

The change in the lecturer system is also considered very significant. According to the decision of the convention the several Farmers' Alliances will hereafter receive their information through the State lecturer and his three assistants instead of the district lecturers, whose office has been abolished. Mr. J. Haskins Hobson, the newly elected State lecturer, is an outspoken Third party man, for he told me himself that at the coming election he would for the first time during twenty-seven years vote for the people's government.

Mr. Hobson has for some time past while he was district lecturer of the Alliance made speeches in the interest of the Third party, but he says that during that time when he spoke in behalf of the Farmers' Al-liance he did so without making any charge rit. The three assistant State lecturers. P. Spangler of Patrick county. Edward. Neberry of Bland, and C. B. Blanton of Appomattox, are said to be Republicans It is said that it is the intention of the Third party to nominate Colonel Randolph Harrison for Congress in the Tenth district.

The new patrol wagon for the use of the police is now building at the shop of James McDonough & Co. They told me last night that work was progressing with dis-patch on it, and that they hope to have it

The wagon will be a most decided acquisition to the police force, enabling them to transport prisoners from the point of arrest to the stations in quick order and still leave the officer on his beat; to carry a squad of relief officers to any point in event of a street fight or riot too much for one man to quell: to carry sick or wounded people by means of a stretcher, with which it is prowided, and other uses that will suggest them-

It is expected that completion of the line will be made and the wires in working order by October 1st. The system is in use in all large cities, and the testimony of the officials and police of there all is without a dissenting voice in its favor.

Boxes at convenient points will be also provided with telephonic communication with the stations, thus also enabling the officer to report from time to time without leaving his beat.

The system opens with ten call stations, to be as follows: On Fourth and Louisiana streets, Fulton: Twenty-Eighth and Main. I wenty-fifth and O. Seventeenth and Williams, Ninth and Cary, First and Duval, First and Main, Graham and Broad, Main and Beach, and China and Pine streets. The head office will be at the Scoond police station, and so will the wagon-house. Two sub-offices will be at the First and Third stations. In all their appointments the wagon and system will be up to date, the boxes being provided with four calls. Death of a Comrade...To Complete the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument. Lee Camp held its regular meeting. Colonel A. W. Archer was in command and

Captain J. Taylor Stratton recorded. After the transaction of the usual amount of routine business the death of comrade Austin C. Lipscomb was reported by Cap-tain Pollard. He stated that the old veteran died at the Home. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Holly-

Commander Archer spoke of the long delay in the completion of the Private Sol-diers' monument and in a few feeling remarks urged the camp to take hold of the matter and push it right through. Captain Stratton stated what action had been taken by the Monument Association up to the present time. He added that he had collected nearly $5,000 as solicitor of the organization and was instrumental in securing the passage of the law appropriating $3,200 for the capstone of the monu-ment. He felt sure that if the matter had been properly pushed the other Southern States would have been willing to contribute $2,000 each for the furnishing of one stone each for the column.

If the matter was taken up again, this time the difficulty would be to collect the money without interfering with similar ob-jects of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association. There was possibly the sum of $2,000 or $3,000 due to Mr. Netherwood for the shait and the statue would cost about $15,000. He had no doubt that if Les Camp would take hold of the matter the monument could be unveiled next spring. The recent trouble at the Soldiers Home was brought before the camp once more, when Lieutenant-Colonel Crump asked whether the board of visitors had presented a report, and whether the difficulty had been amicably settled. Commander Archer stated that the board was in no way compelled to report to the camp on the matter. For it was only required to report twice a year to Lee Camp on such matters as it deemed in the interest of the camp. However, he had no doubt that the board would submit a summary report at the next meeting if the camp should submit a request to that effect. Comrade Gray stated that the investi-gating committee had been very careful in that their organization would gladly submit a report if asked for, and after some further discussion Comrade Spence moved that the board be requested to submit a report at the next meeting. The motion was carried and the camp adjourned.

The children visitors to Forest Hill Park will miss the eagle that has been there. A visitor killed him lately, claiming that a lady, a friend of his, was attacked by the

The young man with the checks, who tried to get A. J. Bradley & Co. to cash one Thursday, tried the same game at the post-office without success. The police are looking for him.

Among the visitors to the corner-stone laying of the Masonic Temple Thursday was Senior Warden R. G. Woods, of the Midlothian Lodge of Freemasons.

Mrs. T. Edna Bayley and Miss Alice Ellis, lately visiting Mrs. J. J. Bayley, have gone to their home in Kittrell's, N. C.

The Mayor had a light docket yesterday, one case only being before him, two negroes, who were fined for fighting in the streets.

A commission of lunacy in the case of Simon Hancock, a white man, was held at the office of 'Squire Perdue yesterday afterthe office of 'Squire Perdue yesterday after. noon, and after hearing medical testimony he was adjudged insane and will be sent to jail for safe keeping until entrance to the Eastern Lunatic Asylum is found for him. He imagines that he is electrified, among other queer fancies, and also says people are pouring seed on him. Insanity prevails in his family, I am told.

The many friends of Mr. W. J. Carter will be pained to hear that his mother was reported very ill last night at her home in Petersburg, where he was called on Thurs-day. It was not expected that she would live through the night.

Robin Redbreast's Love for Mankind. It is a curious fact that the love of our race is so innate in the robin as to render him unhappy in any other society-except ing only in the breeding season, when all birds are naturally shy and suspicious for the welfare of their offspring. Go into any wood, waik down any shady lane, enter any cemetery, seat yourself in any country churchyard, or perch yourself on any rural style-within a few minutes you will assuredly have a robin beside you, and he will assuredly introduce himself with a song. It is in vain for you to say 'Nay." He fairly fascinates you, he woos your heart and wins it, says a writer who has studied the habits of robin redbreast.

Rosewood and Its Name.

Many people suppose that rosewood takes its name from its color, but this is a mistake explains Golden Days. Rosewood is not red nor yellow, but almost black. Its name comes from the fact that when first cut it exhales a perfume similar to that of the rose, and although the dried rosewood of commerce retains no trace of this early perfume, the name lingers as a relic of the early history of the wood.

An Appropriate Motto. Mrs. 7. (to Fogg, lighting his evening dgar)-Daniel, I'm thinking of buying some new mottoes for our rooms. What kind of sentiment would you suggest?

Fogg-Bother! I don't care what you get. Only let it be something new. We've had enough of your "God Bless Our Home," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and all that sort of thing. Let it be something Mrs. F.-I'm real glad, Daniel, that our opinions are exactly alike. How would this suit you: "No Smoking Allowed Here?"-Boston Transcript. Neighborly Instincts.

No More Lawyers in His. "No, sir," said the justice, "I won't have any more lawyers in my court. Hereafter every man must plead his own case." "What's the matter now?" "Well, you see they had one of my niggers up for hog stealing. I was judge and we had three lawyers and a jury. Well, sir, would you believe it? Them lawyers got the jury so mixed upthat they brought in a verdict that I had stole the hog, an let the nigger go. Of course I pardoned myself right off, fined the jury for contempt, whipped the lawyers and lynched the nigger. But I don't want no more lawyers in my co-not much!"-At-

Cruel, Cruel To its victims is that inexorable foe to human peace, that destroyer of rest and frequent termination of human life-rheumatism. Like many another physical ills, it is easily remediable at the outset with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which expels the rhuematic virus of thrme blood through the kidneys. There exists the amplest evidence to prove that in cases that have resisted other treatment the Bitters has produced thorough and permanent results. But to temporize with this malady is folly. Attack it at once with the Bitters and it may be nipped in the bud. When mature it is the most obstinate of complaints. Kidney trouble, dyapepsia, neuralgis, incident gout, constipation, malaria and liver complaint beat a hasty retreat when the Bitters is summoned to the rescue. A wineglassful three times a day.

A Pleasure Tour to Niagara Falls.

A Pleasure Tour to Niagara Falls.

A more interesting trip to Niagara Falls could not be planned than that of August 25th via Royal Blue Line. A special train of day coaches and Pullman Parlor Cars will leave B. & O. Station at Washington at 7:35 A. M., and Camden Station, Baltimore, at 6:45 A. M., passing through the picturesque Wyoming and Lehigh Valleys, amid the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, and arriving at Niagara Falls at midnight. As tickets will have a ten day limit, ample time will be afforded for side trips to points of interest in Southern Canada and the lake region of Central New York. On return journey tickets will be valid on all regular trains and to stop off at Buffalo, the romantic glen Onoko, Mauch Chunk, and Elmira, near which city is Watkins Glen. That these excursions over a new route are That these excursions over a new route are full of interest is demonstrated by the phenomenal popularity they have gained in a short time.
